

Maine's Community Health Centers

Highlights:

- Maine's Community Health Centers (CHCs) are "Health Homes" for Approximately 210,000 Individuals (1 in 6 Maine People). The CHC Health Home or Medical Home model is like visiting your doctor's office, your dentist, care manager, nutritionist and counselor's office all rolled into one. The range of services varies among CHCs, but the vast majority integrate a broad range of services into their health home model.
- Maine has Over 70 CHC Locations Which are Open to Everyone. They are providers of choice for those who have private insurance or Medicare and they are safety net providers for patients with MaineCare or without insurance.
- CHCs Put the Patient First. Health center patients serve on governing boards and patient advisory committees for their local centers, which gives them a say in the health care that is provided to the community.
- CHCs Strengthen the Economy. Maine's health centers employ approximately 2,047 providers, clinicians, support staff and administrators and contribute approx. $200 million to the state's economy. Over the past 2 years, FQHCs positively impacted their communities by bringing $45 million to Maine, ensuring that quality healthcare and enabling services are available to their patients.
- High Quality Health Care is the Hallmark of Health Centers. 100% of Maine's CHCs have adopted and implemented Electronic Medical Records (EMR) and are on the path to Meaningful Use - a step towards enhanced quality reporting. 100% of Maine's health centers meet or exceed one or more Healthy People performance measure goals for the year 2020. Currently, 95% of Maine CHCs are recognized as Patient-Centered Medical Homes, while the national average for recognition is 54%.
- CHCs are Local Leaders in Innovation. Over 93% of Maine's CHCs participate in pilots and demonstrations across the state to test new models of healthcare delivery, seeking to improve quality and patient experience and decrease cost - also known as the Triple Aim. These pilots include ACOs, PCMH Recognition (NCQA), MaineCare Health Homes, APCP and others.
